Course details

This training offers Learners to train in new techniques with a range of resources for direct work carried out creatively with children and young people within their remit. The training aims to provide the Learners with new techniques using specially designed resources to help with their communication and relationship with children and young people to establish their right to express their views in all matters that affect their lives and for these views to be given weight according to the child's age and maturity, as per The United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child (UNCRC) Article 12.

Learners will be able to:

- Communicate with children and young people in a sensitive and creative way, empowering them to express themselves openly with their wishes and feelings.
- Use the resources effectively and efficiently with good outcomes that are beneficial to both the children, young person and professional.
- Identify children that present well that may go undetected.
- Engage with children and young people in a holistic way, that provides a safe space to communicate with them to establish their story.
- Give ownership of the process to the children and young people, to build good relationship with professional, promoting trust and willingness to engage.
- Promote restorative and reflective practice
